

The Polar Bear and Penguin Will Never Meet!: Polar Animals

World
Mark Oblinger

Chorus

The po - lar north is home to Arc - tic hares, musk ox, snow - y owls, and po - lar bears. The po - lar south has pen - guins that or - cas eat. The po - lar bear and pen - guin will nev - er meet. The po - lar bear and pen - guin will nev - er meet.

Verse

1. Way down south is Ant - arc - ti - ca, home to seals and the might - y or - ca. Nei - ther minds the i - cy wa - ter with their lay - ers of fat - ty blub - ber.

Verse 2

Penguins are unable to fly,
but through the water they glide.
These birds really like each other.
For warmth, they huddle together.

Verse 3

Way up north, where it's cold all day,
Arctic wolves and foxes play.
The polar bear roams wild and free
and swims through the icy sea.

Verse 4

Many Arctic animals have fur that's white.
Camouflage keeps them out of sight.
Furry coats help them stay snug and warm
in Arctic snow and ice, wind and storm.

Chorus

Rein - deer prance on fro - zen ground in the tun - dra, where no trees are found. Arc - tic hares snug - gle up in their nests. At hop - ping, they are the best.
