

The Swift Gazelle Can Run Quite Well: Grassland Animals

World
Mark Oblinger

Chorus

Grass - lands have few trees and brush to hide their man - y crea - tures. Some an - i - mals run in groups as one. Let's learn a - bout their fea - tures.

Verse

1. Ze - bra stripes are black and white. Each one's dif - fer - ent from the start.
But when they're run - ning in a herd, you can't tell them a - part.

Verse 2

Lions are big cats that like to nap
and dream of catching dinner.
They will feast on wildebeest.
Their pride makes them a winner.

Verse 3

The swift gazelle can run quite well.
To speed, it's no stranger.
This antelope can sprint up slopes and bound away from danger.

Verse 4

Prairie dogs aren't dogs at all.
They're rodents living in prairie towns.
When danger's near, they chirp to say,
"Everyone, quick, get underground!"

Chorus

Kan - ga - roos cruise on big back legs that they use to hop and crouch.
Their ba - bies get a co - zy ride in - side their moth - er's pouch!
