

Jack and the Beanstalk

Hip hop
Drew Temperante

Verse 1

1. Here's an old, old sto-ry a-bout a boy named Jack. All he had was his moth-er, an old cow, and a shack. He went to trade the cow for some bread, cheese, or greens. But in- stead he brought back a bag of mag- ic beans. Beans!

Chorus

Poor, poor Jack, it looks like you're through. What good will those beans ev- er do?

Verse 2

His mother threw the beans out the window that night. Early the next morning, Jack saw an awesome sight.

The beans grew like magic, a beanstalk to the sky. So Jack began climbing and climbing way up high. High!

Verse 3

Jack kept on climbing to a castle in the sky. A castle in the sky? He softly crept inside.

A magic goose was laying golden eggs galore. So Jack grabbed that goose and headed out the door. Door!

Verse 4

Then, all of a sudden, before Jack could run, he saw a mighty giant crying, "Fee fi fo fum!"

Fee fi fo fum, I smell a little human boy. Whoever stole my goose, I will destroy!" Oh, boy!

Verse 5

Jack hurried down the beanstalk, all the way to the ground. The giant followed after, so Jack looked around.

He grabbed a sharp, sharp axe and chopped the beanstalk down. The giant fell flat and crashed. Oh, what a sound! Sound!

Chorus

Outro

Poor, poor Jack, we thought you were through. But look what good those beans did for you. You have a mag- ic goose, and your moth-er has your back. What a brave, clev- er boy you were, Jack. Jack!
